Farmers in Bourbon county build their dwellings at a cost within 3 per cent of an economic ideal recently worked out by the statisticians of the Farm Bureau of the Department of Agriculture at Washington. That is the average price of a farm house in Bourbon county is 103 per cent of the annual income of the farm on which it stands and from figures gathered all over the United States the department has decided that if a house be built for a sum equal to the annual gross income of its farm the mortgage will be reduced to a minimum and farm life be made correspondingly happier.

Under W. J. Spillman, chief of the Farm Bureau, the department has been busy with the statistics with a view to informing the farmers of the United States just how much they may safely put into their farm houses. Conditions in Bourbon county, the land of plenty, were reported by A. C. Ball, of Millersburg, who was engaged in the primary work for the department. He cast up the general county average and found it to be 103 per cent. His picture of the easy conditions and profitable returns yielded to the farmers around the city of Paris and his information that they spent 103 per cent of their gross annual incomes on their farm houses gave the department an excellent basis to work on. When they had finished their investigations they found that the farmers of Bourbon are only 3 per cent extravagant as builders, and that they have almost solved the problem of living at a rate commensurate with their incomes. In a word the economic building judgment of the average Bourbon county farmer is so nearly correct in the opinion of Prof. Sillman and his bureau that the wolf will never do much howling around his door.

Republicans Select Candidates.

The Republican City Committee met Saturday afternoon and selected candidates for Councilmen in the three wards in this city. Only five members of the committee of six were present and the meeting was held behind closed doors.

No notice of the meeting had been given out, although the committee caucused frequently during the week, considering the advisability of putting candidates in the field to oppose the Democratic nominees in November. The rank and file of the Republican party had no voice in selecting the candidates and two members of the committee were placed on the ticket. In the first ward Dr. W. K. Dudley, Ed Gorey and Max Metzger were named to oppose George Speakes, W. T. Brooks and F. P. Walker. Dr. Dudley was out of town when the nominations were made and upon his return Sunday gave out the statement that he would not put himself up as a target to be shot at by the Democrats.

The candidates selected from the second ward were A. W. Cottingham, Pat Kane and George Wilder, while from the third ward J. W. Larkin was chosen to oppose Harry Baldwin.

Parisian Has Narrow Escape.

In an automobile accident which occurred Friday night Messrs. Ed Slattery, of this city, and Mr. C. O. Wesbey, of Lexington, had a narrow escape from death or possibly serious injury. The accident occurred on the Lexington pike about four miles from Paris.

Mr. Slattery and Mr. Wesbey were returning to Lexington after the latter had made a business trip to this city, and at the point near this city a machine driven by L. E. Maurer, of Lexington, collided with their auto. The force of the impact broke the spokes out of the machine driven by Mr. Wesbey, bending the steering gear so that the machine ran across the road and plunged over an embankment. They were climbing a steep hill and moving along at a moderate rate of speed when the accident occurred. Had Mr. Wesbey been going at a normal rate of speed or had the accident occurred on a bridge a short distance away the occupants of the machine would have been killed outright, but as it was both escaped without a scratch.

Seeks Custody of Infant Child.

Alleging that the plaintiff, Maggie Rogers McClintock, was not complying with a former order of the court by which the defendant, James D. McClintock, of Paris, was entitled to the company, association, love and affection of their infant daughter, Rachel McClintock, the latter through his attorney, Judge Denis Dundon, and Col. John R. Allen, of Lexington, sought by motion of the Fayette Circuit Court Saturday to modify the former order of the court by which the defendant was granted permission to have the child two days out of each week to an equal division of the child's time as the court might direct.

Mrs. McClintock was represented by Robert C. Talbot, of this city and George G. Webb and Maury Kemper, of Lexington.

The defendant presented affidavits from Margaret Paxton, Arch Paxton, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McDonald, Mrs. Lizze Croxter, Mrs. Wm. Giltner, Mrs. Kate Mackey, John J. McClintock Elder and Mrs. J. T. Sharrard, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Scott, Mrs. Julia Nash

Judy, relatives and neighbors, testifying that when Mrs. McClintock visited her father she appeared happy and delighted and showered her affection upon him; that he was able and willing to care for his child and that his sisters were suitable person to look after the child while with its father.
